

The Mayor Says "Thanks"

Just prior to the EMO Exercise of May 27th, I asked for the cooperation of all citizens during the Exercise for our registration and relief work. We are very grateful.

Those services were able to handle over 600 people. Although we were expecting more, we are confident we could have handled double the amount we did, and then some in a real emergency.

However, this exercise did not just involve the welfare services, but all the other services as well. Most of the exercise took place in other parts of the town and outside town. Much of the activity occurred in the control room.

The scope of the exercise included a focus on emergency services and relief work. It was a joint effort of the town and county, involving the fire department, police, and other services.

- (1) The Mayor and Council
- (2) C. D. Headquarters
- (3) Emergency Welfare Services
- (4) Emergency Health Services
- (5) Radiological Services
- (6) Municipal Fire Department and Auxiliary
- (7) Municipal Police and Auxiliary
- (8) Municipal Public Department and Auxiliary
- (9) Communications Services
- (10) Transportation Office
- (11) W. S. A. Office

The exercise was conducted at a slow pace to allow participants time to consider problem presented and to familiarize them with the procedure for handling same.

Much was learned by our EMO team, our relief work, and the exercise was a success. One of our greatest weaknesses was that we were lacking the element of surprise.

But all was not weak. In many areas, previous planning showed up to advantage.

I would like to thank and congratulate all those in welfare services for the tremendous service they performed.

I must congratulate the RAEF group for catching and documenting all radio-active evacuee cars. If or those who are unfamiliar with this, there were a number of cars prepared by EMO with "Red Ribbon" emitting Beta rays to represent contamination of vehicles.

Our thanks go also to Mr. Al Brimley, Mr. Glen McLaughlin, Mr. Jim Lanza for very courteous and effective guiding the various observers from other towns, to the various scenes of activity, so that they were able to observe all our separate department at work.

The Coordinator is to be congratulated for bringing EMO in Drayton Valley to the highest standard in Alberta. This is difficult to accomplish, in an area of emergency where there is little public interest. All our EMO workers deserve our gratitude and support as they continuously plan for our survival in emergency.

C.D. Coordinator Miles Report

The object of Drayton Tyro was to test Wabamun and Auxiliary Services of the Drayton Valley Municipal Services. The object of the Survival Plans have been approved by the Provincial Government and the Town Council. (1) Emergency Welfare Services, (2) Emergency Health Services, (3) Emergency Radiological Services, (4) Emergency Police Services, (5) Emergency Fire Services, (6) Emergency Transportation Services, (7) Emergency Communications Services, (8) Emergency Welfare Services, (9) Emergency Health Services, (10) Emergency Radiological Services, (11) Emergency Police Services, (12) Emergency Fire Services, (13) Emergency Transportation Services, (14) Emergency Communications Services.

The first procedure used to alert each service is what is commonly known as the black system. The head of each service is notified of the alert and they in turn telephone or by members of their staff, who in turn advise others in their service.

In order to start off the Exercise the ALERT signal was telephoned to the Coordinator of Civil Defence in Drayton Valley. This is a Government Official who for this exercise had headquarters in the Town Hall. The Coordinator in turn notified the Mayor that an Emergency had occurred and the Mayor gave the authority for the exercise to commence.

The ALERT signal was then given to alert the public - "three minutes blast of the siren."

Since this warning is given in an actual emergency it is deemed advisable. In order not to cause undue alarm, the public should be forewarned of such an exercise in order for them to distinguish between a real emergency and an exercise. In a real emergency, after hearing the siren sound for three minutes you are instructed to:

- Listen to your radio for instructions.
- Don't use the phone.
- All members of the Civil Defence Corps will report for duty as instructed.

The alert in this instance was sounded at 11:05 a.m. on May 27, 1966. The Control Room staff which includes the heads of all services, together with Operations, Planning, Logistics, Finance, Communications, and other services, gathered in the Control Room. There is room for two more candidates in the junior class, eight in the intermediate and seven openings will exist for those desiring to take instruction at the senior level.

Following this shorter period of instruction will be from July 19 to July 30, with all classes being included. There has been a continuous of registration for this period to date which means there are plenty of openings in each class.

During August the pattern will be the same with one set of lessons running from August 3 to 13, and the final period of instruction for this year will be from August 13 to 27. As is the case with the classes held in the latter part of July, there are still many openings for candidates at all levels of accomplishment. Here you are requested to register for the late July and August instruction as soon as possible, the sooner the entire registration can be completed, the sooner the complete instruction schedule can be finalized and consequently the better for all concerned.

Now here that the adult class present under way from 8:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m., every evening is for Red Cross volunteers only. During the first course in July this period has been reserved for junior candidates only. Therefore from July 5, to 16, the evening instruction is for those at the junior level only. Other classes at the beginner or intermediate levels will be resumed in late July and throughout August.

Many of copies of the summer schedule are available at the pool office. Ask the cashier for one. Also returning instruction registration forms are available at the pool office as well as information pertaining to instruction at any other phase of the pool schedule or pool operation.

By the way we have two top-notch swimming instruction on the staff in the persons of Ken Mickey and Ann Wilson. These men will be assisted by our Red Cross Senior leaders, Jean McKinnon and Marian Kacemak during July and August in instructional work. All in all we have the signs of an excellent swimming season this year. With a break from the weather man it could well be the best ever for us.

AGE . . .
Age is a quality of mind.
If you have left your dreams behind.
If hope is dead.
If you no longer look ahead.
If your attitude is dead.
Then you are old.
But if from time you take the best.
And in life you are the best.
Then no matter how the birthdays fly.
No matter how the years roll by.
You are not old.

The Chapel Hour

The Quiet Hour

Noted Hymns Of Eventide

At evening close it shall be light.—Zephaniah 14:7.

By Rev. E. A. Kirker

NO part of the worship of Christian people has a heartier response than the singing of the age-old hymns of the Faith. And happily there is provided a treasury of hymns in which expression is given to the higher emotions of the spirit. One of the loveliest parts of this treasury is that given to the Hymns of Eventide. Viewed from their exquisite poetry, their spiritual passion and their setting of uplifting melodies, they have a fitting place in united worship. Who does not enter with spirit and meaning into "All Praise To Thee, My God, This Night," "The Day Is Past And Over," "Now God Be With Us," "Now The Day Is Over," and "Sweetest, Breathe An Evening Blessing?"

The popular hymn, "Day Is Dying In The West," voices the beauty of a summer evening and is best known as a Vesper hymn.

The perfect hymn tune "Eventide" was later wedded to the words by Lynn's close friend Dr. W. H. Monk, a noted organist, and remains the favorite melody today.

The last verse nobly expresses the author's prayer:

Hold Thou Thy cross before my closing eyes;
Shine through the gloom, and point me to the skies;
Heaven's morning breaks, and earth's vain shadows flee;
In life, in death, O Lord, abide with me.

The hymn "Sun Of My Soul, Thou Saviour Dear" is taken from a book of hymns and poems entitled "The Christian Year" published in 1827 by John Keble, a clergyman of the Church of England. The first three stanzas plead for an acknowledgment of what a gracious God is to us, that "no earth-born clime" may arise to hide from the saving Christ, and that every evening may be sanctified by His near Presence. The closing stanza appeals for divine guidance.

Come near and near to us when we wake,
Ere through the world our way we take,
Till in the ocean of Thy love
We lose ourselves in Heaven above.

In out-door gatherings. As the sun sinks slowly below the horizon and shadows lengthen, there is a hush of awe and reverence which speaks of the nearness of God and the wonders of His creation. The hymn had its origin at Chateaugay Lake, N.Y., where great assemblies have long gathered for worship. It was one of two hymns especially written by Mary A. Laddbury at the request of a bishop for frequent use at the lakeside gatherings. The other one was "Break Thou The Bread Of Life."

The hymn "Abide With Me" was written by an English pastor named Henry Francis Lyte at Brighthelm as a parting message to his congregation. Overtaken by a serious illness he had resigned his charge and preached his farewell sermon. It was a song from a heart filled with emotion.

GOD'S PLAN
I know God's plan is right
And beautiful for me;
And I can make each dream
A rich reality.
His love will lead me on
By paths green I'll go;
Still waters of His peace
Will teach my heart to know
The wisdom of His will.
His plan, complete, divine,
That He with loving care
Has made for me and mine!
